The Philadelphia Business Journal recently teamed up with a national research firm to identify employers in southeastern Pennsylvania whose wellness policies and programs demonstrate a commitment to a healthy work force.

The top-ranked employers are listed below.

To qualify, companies completed an online corporate assessment administered by Healthiest Employers, a privately held firm in Indianapolis. Participants were asked to respond to 75 questions about their wellness programs, leadership commitment and strategic planning, among other categories. Results were then scored using a format developed by a panel of professionals from health, academic and business backgrounds. To determine final rankings, a proprietary algorithm indexed each organization against the survey set.

Companies were invited to complete the assessment between Jan. 24 and March 11.

The 2011 Healthiest Employers will be honored at an awards breakfast featuring an appearance by restaurateur Marc Vetri on June 2 at the WHYH Dorrance H. Hamilton Public Media Commons in Old City. The Top 5 employers that scored highest will be revealed at the event and also profiled in a special print supplement in the June 3 edition of the Philadelphia Business Journal.
